they would need access to the encryption key, the back end system, etc.

you only need to launder the cover when it starts to smell, or if it gets dirty from stool or something else that your dog gets into.